

BSc Global Health Taster Afternoon

Wednesday 6th November 2019

Clark Kennedy Lecture Theatre - Queen Mary Innovation Centre

Programme
12:45 – 13:00	Arrival and registration (lunch served)
13:00 - 13:15	Introduction to Queen Mary, University of London and BSc Global Health
13:15 - 14:00	Dr Heather McMullen Lecture: Climate change, gender and health As the effects of climate change are mediated by social and cultural factors, women who have less access to equality, rights and livelihoods suffer more. From a greater risk of mortality and morbidity during natural disasters, and increases in gender-based violence in crises, through to impacts on daily life, such as walking longer distances for water or working longer days on the farm only to face ever-decreasing yields, women are on the frontline of a changing planet. This talk will explore some of the gendered dimensions of climate change and its impact on health, with insights on how women are mobilising for gender just climate solutions in creative ways, worldwide.
14:00 - 14:10	Break
14:10 - 14:40	Dr Heather McMullen Seminar
14:40 – 15:00	Global Health current student talk Emre Misri
15:00 - 15:20	Global Health alumni talk: Graduate Entry Medicine Gursh Hayer
15:20 – 15:40	Whitechapel Campus tour
15:40 - 16:00	Q+A session
16:00	End