Important information regarding the Programme Regulations

About this document
Last revised 19 August 2020

As a student registered with the University of London you are governed by the current General Regulations and Programme Regulations associated with your programme of study.

These Programme Regulations are designed and developed by the University of London which is responsible for the academic direction of the programme. The Programme Regulations will provide the detailed rules and guidance for your programme of study.

In addition to the Programme Regulations you will have to abide by the General Regulations. These regulations apply to all students registered for a programme of study with the University of London and provide the rules governing registration and assessment on all programmes; they also indicate what you may expect on completion of your programme of study and how you may pursue a complaint, should that be necessary. Programme Regulations should be read in conjunction with the General Regulations.

The relevant General Regulations and the Programme Regulations relating to your registration with us are for the current year and not the year in which you initially registered. On all matters where the regulations are to be interpreted, or are silent, our decision will be final.

Further information about your programme of study is outlined in the Programme Specification which is available on the relevant Courses page of the website. The Programme Specification gives a broad overview of the structure and content of the programme as well as the learning outcomes students will achieve as they progress.

Terminology
The following language is specific to the programmes offered under these regulations:

Module: Individual units of the programme are called modules. Each module is a self-contained, formally structured learning experience with a coherent and explicit set of learning outcomes. The extent to which these are achieved is measured by the programme assessment criteria.

Throughout the Regulations, ‘we’ ‘us’ and ‘our’ mean the University of London; ‘you’ and ‘your’ mean the student, or where applicable, all students.

If you have a query about any of the programme information provided please contact us. You should use the Ask a question tab in the student portal.

Changes to Divinity Programme Regulations 2020–2021

Programme changes
The programmes offered under these regulations have undergone further significant redevelopment for 2020–2021. The changes listed below, resulting from the programme’s redevelopment, are subject to final approval (expected in Summer 2020):

   - The Diploma of Higher Education in Theology has become the Diploma of Higher Education in Divinity.
   - The Certificate of Higher Education in Theology has become the Certificate of Higher Education in Divinity.

Performance based admission route
2. From 2020–2021 a Performance based admission route will be introduced to the programme (please refer to Section 6 for more details).

Changes to modules
3. The titles of the following modules have been changed and the study materials (available on the VLE) are undergoing substantial revision:

If you attempted and passed this module in 2019–2020 or earlier you will retain the module at Level 6. Students who register on this module from 2020–2021 onwards will take the Level 5 version of the module.

We do not recognise or accredit prior learning for the DipHE or CertHE programmes.

Credit transfer from the Combined Degree Scheme programmes

3.4
If you are registered on the Combined Degree Scheme, you may apply to transfer credit for up to three modules (90 credits) at Level 4 for the BD, DipHE Divinity or CertHE Divinity, where applicable.

4  Assessment for the programme

See General Regulations rules for taking written examinations.

Assessment methods

4.1
Modules are summatively assessed by means of coursework (for most modules) and examination. All modules require you to sit a written examination. Your module mark will be based on a weighted average of all summative assessment elements.

Refer to Appendix D for details of the assessment for each module and the relative weightings for each module.
Refer to the VLE for submission deadlines.
Refer to our website for information on the submission of mitigating circumstances.

4.2
The pass mark for any given module is 40%. For modules assessed by coursework and written examination, you must achieve a weighted mean mark of 40% across the elements of assessment.

Penalty for missing a deadline

4.3
You must submit coursework by the prescribed deadline. Two marks will be deducted per day for submissions made after the deadline, up to a maximum of 10 days. Submissions after this point will not be accepted.

Penalty for exceeding the word limit

4.4
For coursework elements and the Dissertation there is a maximum word limit. If you exceed the word limit, we will reduce the mark you receive as follows:
Excess number of words over the word limit | Penalty applied
---|---
Up to and including 10% | 5 marks deducted from original mark
More than 10% up to and including 20% | 10 marks deducted from original mark
More than 20% | 10 marks deducted from the original mark. The updated mark will be capped at a maximum of 40%.

For coursework elements and the Dissertation, the word limit includes footnotes but not the bibliography.

Date of examinations

4.5

Written examinations take place in May each year.

The Dissertation module

4.6

The Dissertation module is assessed by means of an 8,000-10,000 word Dissertation.

The Dissertation proposal, drafts and final version should be submitted in accordance with the procedures and deadlines set out on the Dissertation module page on the VLE.

5 Number of attempts permitted at an assessment

5.1

You have a maximum of three attempts at any element of assessment taken as part of the modules offered under these regulations, including the Dissertation.

5.2

Where applicable, you are required to attempt all elements of summative assessment in order to complete a module.

5.3

If you fail to complete a module:
- any marks obtained will be carried forward;
- you will not be deemed to have made an attempt at any element of assessment which you failed to submit or did not attend;
- you should complete the module at a later date. Your next opportunity to do so will be one full year later. You will be required to pay a resit/resubmission fee when re-entering the assessment.

Refer to our website for a full list of fees for this programme.
5.4
If you fail a module overall, you should resit any elements of assessment for which you obtained a mark of less than 40%. You will not be permitted to resit any assessment element you have passed.

Students with an effective date of registration of 30 November 2018 or earlier

5.5
If you have failed either Christian doctrine [DT1003] or Philosophy of religion [DT1004], you may choose to replace the module with Religion meaning and value [DT1150] or Introduction to Islam [DT1155], subject to any exclusion rules, as the version of the module that you failed has now been withdrawn.

5.6
Where you choose to replace either of these modules, you will be given three attempts at the new module.

The Dissertation module

If you register on the Dissertation module in 2020–2021, the Dissertation fee that you will pay combines the fee for supervision of the Dissertation and the examination fee for its submission. See the fee schedule for full details.

5.7
If you fail your Dissertation module, you must re-enter for the Dissertation module, submitting a new Dissertation topic for each new attempt, up to the maximum number permitted. You will be required to pay a new Dissertation fee for each new attempt.

5.8
If you submit an approved proposal and later choose not to submit a final Dissertation during the same academic year, you may apply to defer the submission of your Dissertation. In this case, you must contact us via the Student Portal outlining your reasons. You must also communicate your decision to your Dissertation supervisor and the Programme Team.

5.9
If you have chosen to defer the submission of your Dissertation, your Dissertation fee will be carried over, providing that you submit in the next academic year. The date of your deferral is that on which you applied to defer the submission of your Dissertation.

5.10
If you have chosen to defer the submission of your Dissertation, and do not submit your Dissertation the following academic year, you must re-enter for the Dissertation at the next session. You will be required to pay a new Dissertation fee.

6.3
You will be permitted three attempts at each element of assessment for the module. If after using all attempts at assessment you have not achieved an overall pass, your registration will cease and you will not be admitted to the CertHE.

Maximum and minimum number of assessments per year

6.4

Religion and ethics [DT2007-03]

The relationship between religion and ethics is about that between revelation and reason. Adherents to religious belief hold that God (however understood) has revealed insights into the true meaning of life, collected into sacred texts, and often supplemented by ‘tradition’, the accumulated wisdom of communities. From a strictly humanistic perspective, ethics is based on ‘reason’, so that anything that is not rationally verifiable cannot be considered justifiable. Such ethical principles are valued for promoting autonomous and responsible individuals who are capable of making decisions for their own good and that of the society within which they live. The challenge then is to establish some common ground between them, not only to avoid a destructive collision between the two, but to set the scene to expand the possibility of making constructive approaches to contemporary ethical issues.

Topics covered:
- The relationship between religion and ethics
- Using reason: the perspective of natural law and human rights
- Using reason: utilitarianism and deontology
- Being virtuous, religious or not
- What religion contributes to ethical discourse: Judaism, Christianity and Islam
- What religion contributes to ethical discourse: Hinduism and Buddhism

The module enables students to explore three key areas of New Testament theological thought: Christology, soteriology, and eschatology. As students engage with the Gospels, the Pauline writings, the letter to the Hebrews and the Book of Revelation, they will gain an appreciation of the university and diversity that characterises New Testament theology. They will develop skills in interpreting New Testament texts in terms of their theological content, while remaining sensitive to the historical, social and cultural context of the texts.
Prerequisite: In order to take this module, you must already have passed the module Reading the New Testament at Level 4.

Topics covered:
Selected texts in English on the following themes:

Assessment: A 3-hour unseen written examination (100%).

The theology of Christian-Jewish relations [DT3015]
This module is being withdrawn. It is available for resits only in 2020–2021 and the final examinations will take place in May 2021.
Perhaps for the first time since the First Century CE, Christians have begun to develop a positive relationship to Jews that replaces the 'theology of contempt' which treated Judaism as part of the pre-history of Christianity. The Holocaust (Shoah) prompted Christian self-examination, and some Jewish scholars have begun to develop a reciprocal, positive approach to the Christian Church.

This module will examine central questions in this theological dialogue: issues in the parting of the ways in the first century; Rabbinic Judaism and Torah-centred life; how to handle the presence of anti-Jewish sentiments in the New Testament; issues in the theology of supersessionism and the Christian theological negation of Judaism; recent Christian theological approaches to Jewish identity and corresponding proposals from Jewish scholars; Franz Rosenzweig and the theology of a conjoined mission of Jews and Christians; issues in Jewish self-definition and unfinished issues faced by both traditions.

Assessment: A 3-hour unseen written examination (100%).

Christian-Muslim relations [DT3016]

This module is being withdrawn. It is available for resits only in 2020–2021 and the final examinations will take place in May 2021.

This module presents the ways in which Islam has responded to the religious ‘other’ and specifically Christianity from its origins to modern times. It shows the significance of the figure of Jesus/Isa in Islam; examines how the impact on Islam of modernity has affected its attitudes to Christianity and Christians; addresses central issues of doctrinal disagreement between the two religions from a theological perspective; engages with Christian thoughts on Islam; and appreciates the contemporary context of Christian-Muslim relations in contemporary Europe.

Assessment: A 3-hour unseen written examination (100%).

Buddhism [DT3009]

Topics covered will include:

- Mahayana Buddhism as a later form of Buddhism: the changing emphases of the teachings, especially the role of the Bodhisattva

Assessment: A 3-hour unseen written examination (100%).

- Later Christian responses to Judaism
- Franz Rosenzweig on Judaism and Christianity
- Contemporary Jewish responses to Christianity
- Jewish-Muslim relations

Religion and violence [DT3060-02]

Religiously infused violence has become a feature of life at the present time, and the relation of religion and violence has become a matter of considerable public debate. Critics of ‘religion’ accuse it of being the source and cause of violence, and members of different religious traditions, partly under this pressure, examine the way in which their sacred texts, history and present life contain not only actual violence in the name of God, but also symbolic and ritual violence that in some measure appear to validate further religious violence. This module addresses these and related issues in a reflective and analytic way.

Topics covered:
- Introduction and preliminary readings and orientation
- Religious violence, terrorism and the secular city
- Violence in sacred texts
- Monotheism and violence
- Islam and violence
- Religious non-violence: Tolstoy and Gandhi
• A non-violent Jesus in a violent world: N. T. Wright
• René Girard on violence, religion and scapegoating
• ‘The Myth of Religious Violence’: W. T. Cavanaugh
• Freud on the ‘primal murder’ and religion

Assessment: A two thousand-word essay (40%) and a 1.5-hour unseen written examination (60%).

Religion and global politics [DT3045]

Religion plays an increasingly prominent role in our world today. Religion is central to political developments across the globe, ranging from presidential elections in the United States to Hindu nationalism in India, and from inter-state conflict to peace and reconciliation. In this module we will begin with the study of various models of how states structure their relationship with religion, such as the established church and the separation of church and state. We will then look at how the political motivations of religious people can shape a range of political issues, from the anti-apartheid movement of the late 20th century to terrorism today. Finally, we will take a fully global perspective to consider the roles of religions in large-scale issues of conflict, peace, and democratization.

Topics covered:

• Introduction to Religion and Global Politics

Section A

• Religion-State Relations
• Religion and State in Europe
• Religion and State in the United States
• Religion and State in India and China

Section B

• Political Engagement and Activism
• Religion in 20th Century Political Movements
• Islam in Europe
• Religion and Politics in a Global City

Section C

• Global Conflict, Peace, and Democracy
• The Clash of Civilizations
• The Changing Politics of Global Christianity
• Religion and Democracy

Assessment: A two thousand-word essay (40%) and a 1.5-hour unseen written examination (60%).
Religion and science [DT3030]

This module aims to explore the multiple relationships between science and religion in the light of the cutting-edge developments in science and technology which are reshaping our lives. Key topics which will be explored include robotics, bioengineering and genetic modification, the prospects for human life-extension, the development of neurophysiological accounts of what is going on inside our brains and bodies when we meditate or pray, and the discussion about what ‘life’ is, why it has emerged, and where else we might expect to find it.

These cutting-edge topics will be securely rooted in an initial overview of the historical relations between religion and science and more specifically in an exploration of Ian Barbour’s classic ‘four types’ of relationship: conflict, independence, dialogue and integration. The first half of the module will provide students with a clear grasp of the historical tensions and methodological differences between science and religion. The second half will look to extend this understanding by looking at a series of specific problems.

Topics covered:

Section A:
- The relations between religion and science
- Problematic models of these relations: new atheism and intelligent design

Section B:
- A key historical dispute: Galileo
- The idea of scientific method
- Cosmology and the Anthropic Principle
- Teleology and biology
- Neuroscience and the evolutionary psychology of religion
- Religion and technology 1: Robotics
- Religion and technology 2: The ethical implications of life extension
- Faith and the crossing of biological boundaries

Assessment: A two thousand-word essay (40%) and a 1.5-hour unseen written examination (60%).

The tasks of life: Pascal, Kafka, Weil and Levinas [DT3013]

This module is being withdrawn. It is available for resits only in 2020–2021 and the final examinations will take place in May 2021.

This module will examine four significant thinkers - Blaise Pascal, Franz Kafka, Simone Weil, and Emmanuel Levinas - who are linked by a shared sense that our knowledge of ourselves, God and our purpose is difficult and tentative; best lived rather than thought; and glimpsed in fragments rather than grasped through extended metaphysical narratives. It will examine the distinctive features of these thinkers in relation to the constraints, possibilities and flourishing of human life and how they view human life in relation to God, religion and ethics.
It will engage in a critical and comparative evaluation of the distinctive features of the four writers, their religious anthropology and the contribution of their religious background to their thought.

You will study the following topics:

- Pascal's Augustinian approach to sin, boredom and diversion; the three orders of body, mind, heart in relation to the world and God; God known through religious experience; the challenge of deism and atheism; the hidden God and revelation.

- Kafka’s stories as metaphysical parables and their diverse interpretations; possible religious background to his thought; cruelty and religion; modernity and religion; alienation and judgement in a secular context.

- Weil on Plato’s myth of the Great Beast and the allegory of the Cave; how the world expresses divine goodness and beauty, yet is harsh towards humans; divine kenosis and creation; beauty, love of neighbour and religious rituals as implicit ways of loving God.

- Levinas on responsibility for the other; the centrality of ethics and religion; the Jewish meaning of suffering; comparison of Judaism and Christianity on suffering, responsibility and mercy; ‘universalising’ Judaism.

Assessment: A 3-hour unseen written examination (100%).

Dissertation [DT3012]

A Dissertation of 8,000-10,000 words on an agreed topic.
