Important information regarding the Programme Regulations

Last revised 24 May 2021

As a student registered with the University of London you are governed by the current General Regulations and Programme Regulations associated with your programme of study.

These Programme Regulations are designed and developed by the University of London which is responsible for the academic direction of the programme. The Programme Regulations will provide the detailed rules and guidance for your programme of study.

In addition to Programme Regulations you will have to abide by the General Regulations. These regulations apply to all students registered for a programme of study with the University of London and provide the rules governing registration and assessment on all programmes; they also indicate what you may expect on completion of your programme of study and how you may pursue a complaint, should that be necessary. Programme Regulations should be read in conjunction with the General Regulations.

The relevant General Regulations and the Programme Regulations relating to your registration with us are for the current year and not the year in which you initially registered.

On all matters where the regulations are to be interpreted, or are silent, our decision will be final.

Further information about your programme of study is outlined in the Programme Specification which is available on the relevant Courses page of the website. The Programme Specification gives a broad overview of the structure and content of the programme as well as the learning outcomes students will achieve as they progress.

Terminology

The following language is specific to the Criminology and Criminal Justice and the Psychology Law programmes:

Module: Individual units of the programme are called modules. Each module is a self-contained, formally structured learning experience with a coherent and explicit set of learning outcomes and assessment criteria.

Study session: There are two study sessions in a year, each lasting 20 weeks. Sessions begin in October and April. Each session is followed by an assessment submission window.

Resitting the assessment of a failed module: When you resit a failed module you will not receive further Module Leader support but you will have access to the learning materials on the VLE and you will be required to resubmit your summative assessment.

Repeating a failed module: When you repeat a failed module you will receive Module Leader support, you will have access to the learning materials on the VLE and you will be required to resubmit your summative assessment.

Throughout the Regulations, ‘we’ ‘us’ and ‘our’ mean the University of London; ‘you’ and ‘your’ mean the student, or where applicable, all students.

If you have a query about any of the programme information provided please contact us. You should use the ask a question button in the student portal.
Changes to the MSc Criminology and Criminal Justice and MSc Psychology Law Regulations 2021–2022

Programme Regulations are reviewed annually and revised if necessary. Where there are changes which may impact on continuing students, these are listed below.

This programme is offered for the first time in October 2021.
1 Structure of the programmes

Appendix B gives the syllabuses and module outlines.

Qualifications

1.1
The following named qualifications are awarded under the Criminology and Criminal Justice and Psychology Law programmes:

- Master of Science (MSc) in Criminology and Criminal Justice
- Postgraduate Diploma (PGDip) in Criminology and Criminal Justice
- Postgraduate Certificate (PGCert) in Criminology and Criminal Justice
- Master of Science (MSc) in Psychology Law
- Postgraduate Diploma (PGDip) in Psychology Law

Qualification structure

1.2
The MSc Criminology and Criminal Justice and the MSc Psychology Law consist of:

- five modules (30 credits each); and
- one Project module (30 credits)

1.3
The PGDip Criminology and Criminal Justice and PGDip Psychology Law consist of:

- four modules (30 credits each)

1.4
The PGCert Criminology and Criminal Justice consists of:

- two modules (30 credits each)

Individual modules

1.5
All modules from the MSc Criminology and Criminal Justice and MSc Psychology Law programmes, excluding the Project module, are available to students on a stand-alone basis, subject to module availability.

See the Course page for information about when stand-alone individual modules are running.

2 Registration

Effective date of registration

2.1
Your effective date of registration will be either:

- 1 October, if you first register before the September registration deadline;
• 1 April, if you first register before the March registration deadline.

Date of first assessments

2.2
If your effective date of registration is:

• 1 October, you will take your first assessment in March of the following year;
• 1 April, you will take your first assessment in September of the same year.

Study sessions

2.3
The programmes have two registration points in the year. There are two study sessions in a year, each lasting 20 weeks. Sessions begin in October and April. Each session is followed by an assessment submission window.

Information about ratification of grades can be found in Section 6: Progression within the programme.

2.4
Each module will be taught over one 20-week session.

Module availability

2.5
Where the learning experience may be compromised due to low student registrations, we may consider deferring a module to a later session.

Not all modules will run in every study session.
We will inform you of any changes as early as possible and provide you with reasonable alternative arrangements.

Period of registration

See the Programme Specification for the minimum and maximum periods of registration applicable to these programmes.

2.6
The minimum and maximum periods of registration to complete the programme are counted from your effective date of registration.

2.7
If you start by taking individual modules and then register for the PGCert, PGDip or MSc, we will give you a new maximum period of registration for the PGCert, PGDip or MSc.

See Section 6: Progression within the programme for information on maximum and minimum number of modules you can register for in a study session.
3 Recognition of prior learning and credit transfer

To be read in conjunction with the General Regulations, Section 3.

Recognition of prior learning

3.1
If you are registering on the MSc Criminology and Criminal Justice or MSc Psychology Law you may apply for recognition of prior learning for up to 60 credits (two modules).

3.2
If you are registering on the PGDip Criminology and Criminal Justice or PGDip Psychology Law you may apply for recognition of prior learning for up to 30 credits (one module).

3.3
Applications for recognition of prior learning for the Project module will not be considered.

3.4
Prior learning will not be considered or recognised for the PGCert Criminology and Criminal Justice or for Individual module/s.

4 Assessment for the programme

See General Regulations for Rules for taking written assessments

Passing assessments

4.2
The pass mark for each module is 50%.

4.3
If you do not complete the assessment for a module you will be required to re-register for the module and pay the module fee again. There is no academic penalty for this.

Penalty for exceeding the word count of coursework elements

4.4
For coursework elements, you should not exceed the word limit by more than 10%. If the word count is between 10% to 20% above the word limit, the coursework will receive a five mark penalty. If the word count exceeds the word limit by more than 20% you will receive a mark of zero for your work.
Late submission of coursework elements

4.5
You must keep to the deadlines given on the VLE. Coursework elements that are submitted after the deadline will not be marked and the attempt will be considered invalid.

See regulations 5.10–5.12 for more information on invalid attempts.

5 Number of attempts permitted at an assessment element

5.1
The maximum number of attempts permitted for each element of assessment is two.

5.2
You will fail a module if your mark is below 50%.

5.3
You must make a second attempt at the assessment for a module you have failed.

5.4
If you pass a module with a mark of 50% or above, you will not be permitted to make a second attempt at the assessment.

5.5
Second attempts at assessment can be made in two ways, either by resitting the assessment of a failed module or by repeating the failed module.

Resitting the assessment of a failed module

If you resit the assessment for a module, you will have to pay a fee when you re-register for the module to resit the assessment. The fee payable is outlined in the fee schedule.

You will not receive further Module Leader support but will have access to the learning materials on the VLE and you will be required to resubmit your summative assessment or retake the online examination, as applicable.

5.6
If you fail the assessment for a module held in the October session, your resit opportunity will be in the April session of the same academic year.

5.7
If you fail the assessment for a module held in the April session your resit opportunity will be in the October session of the following academic year.

5.8
If you do not make a second attempt at a failed module at the first opportunity, you will be required to repeat the module in full and you will be required to pay the full module fee.

Repeating a failed module

If you repeat a module, you will have to pay the full module fee when you re-register for the module. When you repeat a failed module you will receive Module Leader support, you will have access to the learning materials on the VLE and you will be required to resubmit your summative assessment or retake the online examination, as applicable.
5.9

You may choose when you repeat a failed module. You do not have to take the assessment in the next available study session.

Invalid module attempts

5.10

If you do not submit the assessment for a module, the attempt will be considered invalid and will not count. You will need to re-register and make a new attempt at the module, and you will be required to pay the full module fee. There will be no academic penalty for this.

5.11

For the Project module, if you do not submit the Research ethics form by the deadline your attempt will not be valid, this will not count as an attempt at the module and there will be no academic penalty.

You will be notified of the deadline for submitting your Research ethics form during the study session.

5.12

When you re-register for a module due to a previous failed or invalid attempt, you will be required to pay the module fee again.

6  Progression within the programme

See Section 4: Assessment for the programme for method of assessment.

6.1

You must have passed 60 credits (two modules) before you register for the Project.

Module selection

For MSc students (including those entering via the Performance based admissions route) we recommend that you take one of the following modules when you first register on the programme, where possible:

Either

- CRM010 Psychological and sociological causes of crime; or
- CRM020 The legal and criminal justice context

We recommend that MSc students register on CRM030 Advanced research methods in psychology and criminology before registering on CRM500 Project where module availability allows.

6.2

In any given session you may register on modules up to the maximum value of 90 credits. This can be a combination of new modules or modules that you are resitting or repeating. Of the 90 credits, a maximum of 60 credits can be made up of new modules (two 30-credit modules). A new module is a module you have not registered for previously or for which a previous attempt was invalid.

Where you have reached the maximum credits permitted for a session but you are offered a resit of module/s failed in the previous session, the maximum credit value per session may be increased from 90 credits to 120 credits.
On some occasions, registration on new modules or repeat modules will take place before you receive your results from the previous session and registration for the resit session opens. You should take this into account when making your module selections.

Individual modules

See Section 1 for information about stand-alone module availability.

6.3
You may take one module (30 credits) on a stand-alone basis without being registered for the PGCert, PGDip or MSc. If you apply to progress to the PGCert, PGDip or MSc and this is approved, you may be credited with any individual module successfully completed.

Progression between qualifications within the programmes

6.4
If you are registered on the PGCert or PGDip Criminology and Criminal Justice or PGDip Psychology Law and want to transfer your registration to a higher qualification, you should notify us before you enter for your final assessments.

As the entrance requirements for the PGCert, PGDip and MSc are the same, you do not need to successfully complete the lower award to transfer to the higher award. However, transfer of registration cannot take place whilst a study session is live and before results for this session are ratified by the Exam Board.

Performance based admissions

There are two entry routes into the MSc programmes: the Direct Entry route and the Performance based admission route. See the entrance requirements in the Programme Specification, and the requirements tab on the programmes’ web pages for full details.

6.5
To enter either MSc via the Performance based admission (PBA) route, you must first register for and pass any one module from the MSc programme structure, excluding the Project module. Final results ratified at the Exam Board will be used for the basis of progression.

6.6
While registered on the PBA route you may register for a maximum of 60 credits in any session, of which 30 credits can be made up of new modules. Your total module registrations, including modules that you are waiting to repeat, may not exceed 60 credits.

Transfer from Individual modules

6.7
A mark awarded for completion of an individual module may not be used to replace any mark for a degree, diploma or certificate already awarded.

6.8
If you are registered on a stand-alone individual module and you wish to transfer your registration to the PGCert, PGDip or MSc, you must meet the entrance requirements for Direct Entry or for Performance based admission (PBA).
6.9
If you only meet the entrance requirements for PBA but have already successfully completed an individual module on a stand-alone basis (30 credits), you will be permitted to transfer your registration directly onto the MSc, PGDip or PGCert via the Direct Entry route.

6.10
Only one module (30 credits) may be counted as credit towards the MSc, PGDip or PGCert.

If you request to transfer from stand-alone individual module(s) to the MSc, PGDip or PGCert and are currently undertaking the study for these modules, transfer of registration cannot take place whilst a study session is live and before results for this session are ratified by the Exam Board.

Transferring between programmes

You may submit a request via the student portal to transfer between the Criminology and Criminal Justice and Psychology Law programmes. See Appendix A for the programme structures for each programme and award.

6.11
If we allow you to transfer between the programmes:

- The marks you have already obtained will be taken into consideration for classification purposes. If you have been given credit for a module, we will not allow you to resit or repeat it.
- Attempts at any failed modules will be carried forward and your remaining attempt, where applicable, may take place after transfer.
- We will credit you with any modules that you have already passed.

7 Schemes of award

Marking criteria

See Appendix C for the Assessment Criteria.

7.1
All assessments will be marked according to the published Assessment Criteria.

Mark scheme

7.2
The following mark scheme is used for the MSc, PGDip and PGCert:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Mark range</th>
<th>Outcome</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>70% and over</td>
<td>Distinction</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>60% – 69%</td>
<td>Merit</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>50% – 59%</td>
<td>Pass</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>0% – 49%</td>
<td>Fail</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
7.3
To calculate the final grade for the qualification, the marks for modules are weighted equally.

7.4
To be granted a qualification with Merit, your mean average mark for all modules excluding the Project must be between 60% and 69%; your mark for the Project must be 60% or above.

7.5
To be granted a qualification with Distinction, your mean average mark for all modules must be 70% or above.

Date of award

7.6
The date of award will correspond to the year that the requirements for the award were satisfied.

Exit qualifications

7.7
If you have exhausted your permitted number of attempts at module(s) and/or are unable to complete the MSc or PGDip, you may be considered for an exit qualification of PGDip or PGCert (respectively). In such circumstances, you will need to have achieved the credits required for a PGDip (120 credits) or PGCert (60 credits) and have successfully completed the required modules for the qualification concerned as set out in Appendix A.

Exit qualifications will be classified according to regulations 7.6 and 7.7.

7.8
If you have not completed the required modules, but you have completed the required number of credits for a PGDip (120 credits) or PGCert (60 credits), the Board of Examiners may, at its discretion, consider you for an exit qualification.

7.9
The exit qualification of PGDip or PGCert will be with effect from the year in which you satisfied the requirements for that award. Your registration will cease once the exit qualification has been granted.

7.10
Students registered on the MSc or PGDip Psychology Law who qualify for a PGCert exit qualification will be awarded the PGCert Criminology and Criminal Justice.
Appendix A – Structure of the programmes

A detailed outline of the module syllabus is provided on the Programme page, under structure.

MSc Criminology and Criminal Justice

For the qualification of MSc Criminology and Criminal Justice, you must pass the following modules (each worth 30 credits):

- CRM010 Psychological and sociological causes of crime
- CRM020 The legal and criminal justice context
- CRM030 Advanced research methods in psychology and criminology*
- CRM040 Comparative sentencing and penology*
- CRM050 Global criminology
- CRM500 Project*

*These modules are not available in 2021–2022 but will be launching in subsequent sessions. Please see the Programme Regulations for 2022–2023 for further details of the availability of these modules.

MSc Psychology Law

For the qualification of MSc Psychology Law, you must pass the following modules (each worth 30 credits):

- CRM010 Psychological and sociological causes of crime
- CRM020 The legal and criminal justice context
- CRM030 Advanced research methods in psychology and criminology*
- CRM040 Comparative sentencing and penology*
- CRM060 Young people and the criminal justice system: psychological research and practice
- CRM500 Project*

*These modules are not available in 2021–2022 but will be launching in subsequent sessions. Please see the Programme Regulations for 2022–2023 for further details of the availability of these modules.

PGDip Criminology and Criminal Justice

For the qualification of PGDip Criminology and Criminal Justice you must pass the following module (30 credits):

- CRM050 Global criminology

Plus any three of the following modules (each worth 30 credits):

- CRM010 Psychological and sociological causes of crime
- CRM020 The legal and criminal justice context
Programme Regulations 2021–2022 Criminology and Criminal Justice (MSc/PGDip/PGCert/Individual modules) and Psychology Law (MSc/PGDip/Individual modules)

- CRM030 Advanced research methods in psychology and criminology*
- CRM040 Comparative sentencing and penology*

*These modules are not available in 2021–2022 but will be launching in subsequent sessions. Please see the Programme Regulations for 2022–2023 for further details of the availability of these modules.

PGDip Psychology Law

For the qualification of PGDip Psychology Law, you must pass the following module (30 credits):

- CRM060 Young people and the criminal justice system: psychological research and practice

Plus any three of following modules (each worth 30 credits):

- CRM010 Psychological and sociological causes of crime
- CRM020 The legal and criminal justice context
- CRM030 Advanced research methods in psychology and criminology*
- CRM040 Comparative sentencing and penology*

*These modules are not available in 2021–2022 but will be launching in subsequent sessions. Please see the Programme Regulations for 2022–2023 for further details of the availability of these modules.

PGCert Criminology and Criminal Justice

For the qualification of PGCert Criminology and Criminal Justice, you must pass any two of the following modules (each worth 30 credits):

- CRM010 Psychological and sociological causes of crime
- CRM020 The legal and criminal justice context
- CRM030 Advanced research methods in psychology and criminology*
- CRM040 Comparative sentencing and penology*
- CRM050 Global criminology

*These modules are not available in 2021–2022 but will be launching in subsequent sessions. Please see the Programme Regulations for 2022–2023 for further details of the availability of these modules.
Appendix B – Module descriptions

Psychological and sociological causes of crime [CRM010]

‘Crime’ is a social construct that encapsulates a broad range of phenomena from individual acts of law breaking to transgressions by organisations, corporations and states. It is important for social scientists to understand the social, economic, and political contexts in which ideas about crime and offending arise. This module will help students to develop a critical understanding of dominant theories and conceptual models in psychology and sociology. Students will also be introduced to empirical tests of leading theories and the translation of theories into policy and practice.

Assessment: One 3,000-word case study (100%)

The legal and criminal justice context [CRM020]

This module will provide a critical overview of the criminal justice system in England and Wales (one of the first state sanctioned systems) and where relevant it will make global comparisons. The module will also consider the social, legal and political context of this system and how it may provide a pivotal role for the offender to navigate the criminal justice system. In particular, by considering roles such as the ‘appropriate adult’ and the expert in the prosecution, imprisonment and probation of an individual, the module will reflect on how the state, society and the private sector assists this system of regulation. The module will utilise case studies to highlight the practical application of key criminal justice problems and students will complete the course with an effective understanding of criminal justice policy, relevant associated legal frameworks, the input from psychology and the underpinning theoretical frames of reference.

Assessment: Online examination (100%)

Advanced research methods in psychology and criminology [CRM030]*

A comprehensive and in-depth knowledge of research methods used in the social sciences is essential for learners to become critical consumers of scientific knowledge. Learners must also be competent in their ability to collect qualitative and quantitative data, and to conduct a broad range of research analyses when undertaking empirical research to answer novel research questions. Students must also understand the distinctive approaches of methods in psychology and criminology and be able to analyse, communicate, and evaluate a broad range of research methodologies.

Assessment: One 3,000-word research proposal (100%)

*Not available in 2021–2022

Comparative sentencing and penology [CRM040]*

This module will require students to continue to develop their understanding of theory, context and practice to explore key issues in the disposal mechanisms for those sentenced in any criminal justice process. To understand and compare sentencing frameworks and practices along with penological choices enables students to utilise relevant methodologies and to critically review global policies with this group with a view to proposing and affecting positive change.

Assessment: Online examination (100%)

*Not available in 2021–2022
Global criminology [CRM050]
Exploring both cutting-edge criminological theory and current real-world research pertaining to crime, punishment and justice, this module utilises a multidisciplinary approach, drawing on criminology, history, sociology, law and social psychology to explore global crime problems.

Appetite for criminology and criminal justice courses has been growing both nationally and internationally over recent years. Though the production of knowledge, as well as research focus in criminology has been heavily skewed towards a select number of global North countries, there is now an emphasis on redressing this imbalance. Accordingly, as the discipline develops there is increasing demand for courses analysing issues of crime and criminal justice beyond the global North prioritising international comparative and global perspectives, which are now fast-growing within the academic field of criminology.

Assessment: Online examination (100%)

Young people and the criminal justice system: psychological research and practice [CRM060]
This module aims to provide learners with a developmental perspective of understanding young people in the criminal justice system. It will draw on psychological and criminological theories to understand young people’s journeys through the criminal justice system. The concepts of risk, power, safety, and vulnerability will be considered, alongside understanding the narrative of young people’s lives and how they are shaped by the multiple systems within which they interact (i.e. legal, health, social care, education). Through taking a developmental lens to understand the needs and experience of young people this module will draw on attachment and trauma-informed frameworks.

The module will engage learners with key debates and issues when working psychologically with young people in the criminal justice system. It will explore their journey through the system, from point of arrest to sentencing, examining the process of criminalisation and interventions offered to young people in these contexts. The module will take a critical lens to understanding the role of the psychologist (and other professionals) within these systems and will consider what ethical practice means in this context.

Assessment: One 3,000-word professional report (100%)

Project [CRM500]*
The project module provides learners with the experience of conducting an independent empirical research project on a topic relevant to Psychology Law or Criminology and Criminal Justice. Students will draw on learning from the Advanced research methods module and skills and knowledge gained from across their programme of study. They will develop research questions, choose appropriate methodologies, consider relevant ethical issues, collect research data, interpret research findings, and formally present their findings in the form of a research project. Learners will also engage in reflecting on other possible modes of research dissemination and impact including, for example, conference presentations, practitioner events, consultation, policy formation, book chapters, and journal publication.

Assessment: One 10,000-word research project

*Not available in 2021–2022
