LLM in International Corporate Governance, Financial Regulation and Economic Law
About the course

The LLM in International Corporate Governance, Financial Regulation and Economic Law (ICGFREL) is an advanced-level programme examining corporate governance, financial regulation and economic law from an international and comparative perspective with particular focus on European and UK corporate governance regulation and practices, and international institutional developments.

The programme is based at the Institute of Advanced Legal Studies, a member institute of the School of Advanced Study, University of London. It builds on the Institute's existing research expertise in the area of company law, corporate governance, international economic law, financial regulation, law of foreign investment and financial law. It has been designed to appeal to law graduates as well as those in other disciplines—such as business studies, international relations, and finance and economics—who would like to learn more about the legal side of international economic relations and to develop a specialised understanding of corporate governance concepts and the role of financial regulation in today's globalised financial markets. The Institute is uniquely qualified and situated to offer this academic law degree programme in London, the world's leading international financial centre.

The ever-changing nature of international financial markets and new challenges and crises associated with this dynamic sector of the global economy require an interdisciplinary and international approach. This LLM course, which combines law and economics of financial markets and services, will meet the needs of law and business graduates who wish to pursue a career in financial services and to develop their knowledge and skills in an important and complex field.

The degree of LLM in International Corporate Governance, Financial Regulation and Economic Law is awarded by the University of London at a ceremony held each year in Senate House.
How will this course benefit me?

The LLM in International Corporate Governance, Financial Regulation and Economic Law aims to:

- Widen students’ knowledge of corporate governance, financial regulation and international and comparative aspects of economic law and financial regulation
- Introduce students to the principles and theories that underlie the field and to the role of financial regulation and legal mechanisms in averting and/or managing financial crises
- Stimulate broader strategic thinking about the goals of corporate and financial regulation and how it affects business strategy and overarching public policy, with an analysis of the economic and legal principles applied to practical case studies
- Address the public policy aspects of financial regulation and corporate governance
- Assist students in developing the skills in legal analysis and compliance with laws and regulation required for a dynamic career related to the law, regulation and practice of financial markets, or to the financial services sector

Degree overview

The programme offers modules that analyse corporate governance, financial regulation and international economics and financial law from a European and comparative perspective. The main themes include the role of international economic organisations in globalised financial markets and the emerging legal and regulatory institutions that govern European financial markets. The United Kingdom's legal and regulatory regime is an important area of focus, including the various institutional models of regulation. Although the programme's core modules focus mainly on an academic analysis of the relevant legal and regulatory concepts and principles, elective modules offered by legal and regulatory practitioners address the practical aspects of corporate governance and financial regulation. The modules are taught by leading academics from the University of London and other UK universities.
Structure

Core modules 2017–18
- International Corporate Governance and Transnational Corporations
- International Capital Markets Law and Securities Regulation

Elective modules*
- Bank Corporate Governance
- The Law of International Trade and Finance
- Money Laundering and Financial Regulation
- LLM Research Methods Training
- International Economic Law and Organizations

Dissertation
- 15,000 words, topic identified by student, to be agreed with supervisor

* Availability of elective modules and lecturers may vary from year to year.
Course summary

Degree structure
Six modules (two core modules and four elective modules) plus a dissertation of approximately 15,000 words.

Mode of study
12 months full time or 24 months part time. Full-time students complete taught modules during the first and second terms (October–March) and write the dissertation during the third term (April–June). Part-time students typically take four modules in the first year of study and two modules plus the dissertation in the second year.

Fees 2017–18
Home and EU students: full time, £8,320; part time, £4,160
Overseas students: £13,260

For further details, visit ials.sas.ac.uk/study/courses/llm-international-corporate-governance-financial-regulation-and-economic-law.

Lecturing and teaching

The academic faculty for the programme consists of leading scholars in the fields of national and international financial law and regulation, European and UK economic law, corporate governance and corporate law and practice. Faculty members have published in the leading academic presses and journals, including Oxford University Press, Cambridge University Press, and Lexis-Nexis/Butterworths. Faculty members have also authored major government reports and have served as advisers to the European Union Parliament Committee on Economic and Monetary Affairs and the House of Lords Select Committee on Economic Affairs. Experienced practitioners will teach some modules; guest lectures are presented by eminent lawyers and jurists.

ials.sas.ac.uk
Why choose this degree?

- You are a lawyer or compliance officer, regulator or policy maker who wishes to enhance your knowledge and understanding of corporate governance, financial law and regulation and economic law.

- You are a law graduate, economics graduate or graduate from another discipline who is pursuing a career in financial services and corporate finance with a legal and regulatory edge: the interdisciplinary nature of the programme means that applicants are not required to have a law degree nor a professional qualification in law.

- You already have professional experience working in financial service firms, law firms or corporations and wish to learn more about how law and regulation affect management practices, corporate governance and business strategy.

- You wish to work or are already working in government and state agencies in charge of production, supervision and enforcement of regulatory laws, such as central banks, securities and exchange commissions or insurance regulators.

- You have a background in university lecturing in business, law or social science and are looking to enhance your qualifications to teach corporate law/governance, financial law/regulation, or international political economy and international economic law and organisations.

Learn more

For details of entry and language requirements, tuition fees, funding opportunities, disability support, accommodation and how to apply, please consult the School’s graduate study webpages. Detailed course descriptions and information about assessment are available on the Institute’s graduate study webpages.

School graduate study webpages: www.sas.ac.uk/graduate-study

Institute graduate study webpages: ials.sas.ac.uk/study/courses
The Institute of Advanced Legal Studies (IALS) was founded in 1947 as a national academic institution serving all universities through its national legal research library. Its function is to promote, facilitate and disseminate the results of advanced study and research in the discipline of law, for the benefit of persons and institutions in the UK and abroad. Its areas of speciality include arbitration and dispute settlement, company law, comparative law, economic crime, financial services law and legislative studies and law reform, and the legal profession and delivery of legal services. The Institute of Advanced Legal Studies is a member institute of the University of London’s School of Advanced Study.

The School of Advanced Study is the UK’s national centre for the support and promotion of research in the humanities. Located at the heart of the University of London in Bloomsbury, the School provides an unrivalled scholarly community in which to pursue postgraduate study and research. Students learn from leading specialists in their fields, hone their research skills in highly regarded training programmes, expand their knowledge through an extensive calendar of events, and become part of a worldwide network of humanities scholars. Funding opportunities include AHRC-sponsored London Arts and Humanities Partnership studentships, SAS studentships, and a number of subject-specific bursaries and awards.

For further information on the range of programmes we offer, please visit our website or contact us at:

School of Advanced Study
Senate House
Malet Street
London WC1E 7HU
United Kingdom

E: sas.registry@sas.ac.uk
T: +44 (0)20 7862 8663
sas.ac.uk

Follow us on:

twitter.com/
@ials_law

ials.sas.ac.uk